

HISTORY OF UTTOXETER....

As a visitor you will find that Uttoxeter is a colourful and vibrant market town that has a friendly and welcoming appeal. Many buildings and the street layout date back to the sixteenth century, although some were modernized by the Victorians. There is a great range of independent shops which offer a warm welcome. Locals can get all of their weekly needs in the town and have an excellent choice of places for those needing refreshment.

Outdoor markets are held on Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. Last Saturday in the month hosts a farmers market.

Uttoxeter's name has had 79 spellings since it was mentioned in the Domesday Book as "Wotocheshe". For more information on this little gem of a town visit the Heritage Centre in Carter Street.
